California Trail Days

Constructing and upgrading trails in parks is a tradition dating back to the 1930s and the days of the Civilian Conservation Corp. Since 1969, California has been offering opportunities for public land managers and the public to work together improving hiking, equestrian and mountain biking trails on our public lands.

Already thousands of Californians spend time helping to construct and maintain our growing system of trails. California Trail Days is the perfect opportunity to promote the great health benefits of outdoor exercise. Whether it be from cutting brush, adding needed culverts or repairing the trail tread, there are plenty of activities to keep you busy. With more school children deciding to participate in community volunteering and an increasing active population seeking volunteer work, Trail Days provides the perfect opportunity.

Benefits of Trail Days

California's population increase from today's 35 million, to an estimated 50 million by 2025 will result in a tremendous impact on our trail system. Public involvement maintaining old trails and constructing new trails develops a welcome resource of additional trail workers. Today's volunteers will be tomorrow's vocal supporters for adequate trail funding.

Trail Days Evolution

Tony Look has served as the organizational leader of California Trail Days since its origination in 1969. After providing over 35 years of incredible service and support for the California Trail Days, Tony is turning over his day-to-day management of the project. In 2005, California Trail Days will be coordinated through the California State Parks Statewide Trails Office. This will be done in cooperation with the California Trails Conference nonprofit organization.

For additional information regarding changes, please contact Statewide Trails Manager Ken McKowen, at kmcko@parks.ca.gov or by telephone at 916-653-6501.

Trail Days Registration

Why register for Trail Days? Because it will cost you nothing more than a moment of your time. You are not even required to purchase patches, even though you and your volunteers will love them. We will include your organization in our distribution of the Governor's California Trail Days proclamation and include your Trail Days photo's in our summary report.

To participate or order patches, contact:
