

How Can I Help?

More than 70 million people visit California's 278 state parks each year. The State of California can use your help to keep these parks open, clean, and green.

The Need

The State has been entrusted with the care and preservation of more than 1.5 million acres of parkland, along with their natural and cultural resources. Park entry, day-use, and camping fees do not cover the total cost of keeping parks pristine for you, your family and your friends.

The Solution: You

You, your family members, and your business can join other individuals and organizations working to maintain California's State Park System as the finest in the nation.

What Can We Do?

- Volunteer
- Support a Cooperating Association
- Donate

Volunteer

Spend time doing what you love! Your favorite local park could use your help as a docent, camp host, hike leader, or historic reenactor. For more information, visit www.parks.ca.gov/volunteer

Support a Cooperating Association

Most parks have support groups that assist financially with park interpretation and operations. These charitable organizations would welcome your membership and contributions. More information may be found at www.parks.ca.gov/associations

Donate

Your tax-deductible donation would help sustain California's park legacy for generations to come. Contribute to an organization that supports state parks, or click on the Donate Now button that says "Support Your State Park System" at www.parks.ca.gov.

Become a Proud Partner

California State Parks welcomes corporate sponsorship at many levels. If your business shares California State Parks' commitment to provide for the health, inspiration and education of the people of California, please visit www.parks.ca.gov/partnerships or call (916) 653-5682 for more information about Proud Partners.
