Students Experience Candle Dipping as a Part of Daily Life in the 1850's

Columbia State Park is a popular destination for school groups studying California History. Seven Sisters Soap & Candle Co. offers hands-on candle dipping at the Candle Courtyard on Main Street so that students can experience part of the daily life of the miners and immigrants during the 1850's.

The Candle Courtyard is fenced so we can control the number of students who have access to the dipping station at any one time. We allow 5-8 students with their parent or teacher through the gate at a time and teach them how to dip their own candles. Students enjoy the process of incrementally adding wax until the candle is complete. Waiting students are able to observe the process while waiting.
