

SPEAKER BIOS

2.29.12

Randy Anderson is a landscape architect and planner, in both public and private practice. For many years, he has focused on trails and other accommodations for alternative transportation modes, and on open space preservation. From 1992 to 2000 he was Senior Planner or Planning Manager for the Midpeninsula Regional Open Space District. In 2000, he founded his own consulting practice, LandPeople, and in 2008, merged his firm with Alta Planning + Design. His work includes dozens of trail projects in sensitive environmental settings with complex technical requirements, often with controversial public issues. randyanderson@altaplanning.com

Zachi Anderson, got his first job building trail for the state of Vermont at the age of 14. Although a professional house and landscape contractor by profession, Zachi has been instrumental in the development of trails in the Sierra's since 1984. He is a member of the Professional Trail Builders Association and has trained with the nation's top federal trail builders. With over 45 miles of trail built with volunteers, Zachi continues to expand on his use of creative trail features and construction techniques to produce popular heritage trails in the region. Zachi@casaditerra.net

Carol S. Armstrong is Co-Director of the Los Angeles River Project Office of the City of Los Angeles, which was established in the Department of Public Works, Bureau of Engineering when the City Council adopted the long-range LA River Revitalization Master Plan in 2007. Carol oversaw the plan's development and her office is now in charge of coordinating its implementation across multiple departments and agencies.

Shelly Backlar joined the Friends of the Los Angeles River as the Executive Director in 2003. She was an Advisory Committee member for the City's Los Angeles River Revitalization Master Plan and has served on several other River-related committees. A life-long bird lover, her recent career highlight was canoeing a natural section of the Los Angeles River on the historic "Paddle the LA River" pilot boating program. In August, Shelly was one of four sister-river delegates from Los Angeles who traveled to Munich, Germany to celebrate a decade-long effort to "renaturalize" the Isar River. Shelly especially enjoys interacting with young people during River field trips and classroom presentations.

Thor Bodtker

thunder.t@hotmail.com

Adrienne Bosler is Stewardship Associate of the Palos Verdes Peninsula Land Conservancy (PVPLC). She is responsible for training and managing volunteers in habitat restoration projects, a Team Leader program, Trail Crew training and the Keepers Citizen Monitoring program. The PVPLC has utilized volunteers to help steward over 1,600 acres of open space for habitat management and public access. abosler@pvplc.org

Ginny Bowers is a long time member of the Conejo Open Space Trails Advisory Committee. Ginny is an equestrian, and coordinates the annual Conejo Open Space Volunteer Trail Work Day. This event attracts more than 150 hikers, mountain bikers and equestrians who work together to construct or realign up to a mile of trail. Ginny organizes the small army of volunteers necessary to prepare for and run the event. ginnybowers@verizon.net

Lyndie Bradshaw REI (Recreational Equipment Inc.), Orange County Outreach Specialist. Lyndie has been working at the local level for REI for 10 years, in Colorado; and since moving to California 5-years ago continues to build partnerships with local and national nonprofits. Some of her best work is yet to come with new and growing needs for trail restoration and partnerships within Orange County California. She continues to lead REI national campaigns with success, and continuous growth of volunteerism and community programs. lbradsh@rei.com

Elena Brokaw has a background in municipal government, both working for the city of Ventura as Director of Parks, Recreation & Community Partnerships, and consulting for other municipalities. Her areas of expertise are in facilitating community cultural and public arts planning, strategic planning and assisting organizations and businesses with transition issues. ebrokaw@brokawjackson.com

Brian Burchfield is a Designer at Alta Planning + Design, with over 3 years of professional experience. Brian manages mid-level projects, working closely with clients to take an idea from preliminary design development through complete construction documents and implementation. brianburchfield@altaplanning.com

Barth Campbell is owner of Campbell Grading, Inc., and has over 30 years of experience in the design and construction of trail and environmental restoration projects. He has specialized in creating unique and innovative solutions to trail, restoration and creek stabilization projects in environmentally sensitive areas. barth@campbellgradinginc.com

Marie Campbell, founder and principal at Sapphos Environmental, Inc., has been an avid trail user as well as parks and recreation consultant for over 22 years. Sapphos Environmental, Inc. provided support to the County of Los Angeles in preparing its recently released Trails Manual, including research of technical information and extensive public outreach. mcampbell@sapphosenvironmental.com

Joan Cardellino is the South Coast Regional Manager for the State Coastal Conservancy, a region that stretches from Ventura through San Diego. Joan has a master's degree from UC Berkeley in urban geography and enjoys the challenges of resurrecting native habitats and creating trails in heavily urbanized areas. In the south coast region the Coastal Conservancy is involved in restoring major wetland complexes, developing the Coastal Trail and regional trails connecting to the Coastal Trail. jcard@scc.ca.gov

Mark Carpenter. With a background in landscape architecture, resource planning and geographic information systems, Mark oversees both KTU+A's resource management and technology services. His work integrating scientific understanding, technical expertise and design has allowed him to focus on environmental planning and design aimed at balancing the management of natural and cultural resources with human activities. This focus has resulted in development of innovative techniques to evaluate proposed projects within open space areas. With three young children, Mark has experienced firsthand the efforts of trail layout and design on his own kids' desire to experience the outdoors. markc@ktua.com

Howard Cohen did trail work with the Santa Monica Mountains Trails Council (SMMTC) for a number of year before become a board member in 2007. He enjoys hiking, backpacking, mountain biking, rock climbing and running in the Santa Monica

Mountains; as well as pursuing these sports around the globe. Howard also applies his information management skills to maintaining the SMMTC's membership database, and continues to get his hands dirty maintaining trails. howard@gravityh.com

Stephen R. Copley is a licensed landscape architect with over 30 years experience in recreational planning, including the design and construction of numerous parks and trails throughout central and southern California, as well as central Arizona and the Phoenix Metropolitan area. scopley@parks.lacounty.gov

Ruth Davidson-Guerra is the Assistant Community Development Director for the City of Burbank. Her educational background is in business, landscape architecture, planning and real estate development. Ruth has dedicated the last 20 years in public service to effectuate change and community betterment. Her focus has successfully integrated land use and transportation planning, affordable housing, redevelopment, economic development and real estate, helping to transform underserved communities in Burbank. rtdavidson@ci.burbank.ca.us

Ron DeCarli is the Executive Director of the San Luis Obispo Council of Governments (SLOCOG). Over the past 20 years SLOCOG, under Ron's leadership, has been directly or indirectly involved in advocating, planning and funding bikeways, trails and street enhancements in and linking almost every community in the County of San Luis Obispo. He is well known for interagency collaboration, and leveraging local, regional and federal funding to plan, design and construct regional projects. rdecarli@slocog.org

Tim Duff is a Project Manager with the State Coastal Conservancy, where for the past 12 years he has managed funding for the planning, permitting and construction of Coastal Trail projects throughout the state. Tim has worked closely with Ron DeCarli of SLOCOG and others to secure transportation match funding for a variety of trail projects along the Central Coast, including the $1.5 million Pirates Cove Coastal Trail in Avila Beach that is expected to go to construction in 2013 with funding support from San Luis Obispo County, State Department of Fish and Game, SLOCOG and the Coastal Conservancy. tduff@scc.ca.gov

Joseph Edmiston was appointed Executive Director of the Santa Monica Mountains Conservancy by Governor Jerry Brown in 1980. Under his leadership, the Conservancy has preserved over 69,000 acres of public parkland within and surrounding the Los Angeles metropolitan region, in a zone extending from the edge of the Mojave Desert to the Pacific Ocean. Joe has lectured extensively on environmental planning, park development and urban land use issues. He also serves as Executive Officer for nine joint exercise of powers agencies formed between the Conservancy and local governments in Southern California. He was elected as a Fellow of the American Institute of Certified Planners and received the Legasse Medal from the American Society of Landscape Architects; he is proud to have led the Conservancy when it received the American Planning Association's highest national planning honor, the Daniel Burnham Award. Edmiston@smmc.ca.gov

Dave Everett, M.P.T. Physical Therapist, Santa Barbara Trail Volunteer Crew Leader and co-founder of the Multiuse Trails Coalition. Dave has been involved in maintaining the Santa Barbara Front Country Trail System for the past decade and leading trail volunteer groups since 2009. Sustainable trail care techniques have been part of his volunteer work, as well as teaching others the basics of sustainability. He is the creator of mobile and maintenance based mapping systems designed to assist trail agencies and trail users in Santa Barbara. dave@lipt.com

Kristin Foord is the Manager for the Conejo Open Space Conservation Agency, which is a joint powers agency stewarding 12,000 acres of open space and 140 miles of multi-use trails in Thousand Oaks. She holds a BA in Environmental and Earth Science from Dartmouth College and an M.A. in GIS and Remote Sensing from Boston University. Prior to moving to California, Kristin served as the Director of Land Acquisition for the Massachusetts Department of Fish and Game. kfoord@toaks.org

Jim Friedl. In 2006, Jim became the Conejo Recreation and Park District's third General Manager in its 49-year history. He serves jointly with the City Manager of the City of Thousand Oaks, as the Chief Administrative Officer of the Conejo Open Space Conservation Agency, and he is the Financial Officer for the Mountains Recreation and Conservation Authority. Jim also serves on the legislative committee of the California Association of Recreation and Park Districts, and is a Certified Special District Administrator through the Special District Leadership Foundation. jfriedl@crpd.org

Emily Gabel-Luddy is a Lecturer in the Graduate School of Architecture, at the University of Southern California. Ms. Gabel-Luddy was trained as a landscape architecture/planner, and has over 30 years of professional experience in policy and urban design. She is a 1990-91 Loeb Fellow at the Harvard Graduate School of Design and a Fellow of the American Society of Landscape Architects. egluddy@aol.com

Bob Gage is an experienced equestrian and trail advocate, living in Northern California and operating a small horse ranch. He is also a bicyclist with experience on both mountain and road bikes. Bob is a long time member and past officer in the California State Horsemen's Association (CSHA) and is the current CSHA State Trails Program Chairman. An avid backcountry horseman, he is a member of the Back Country Horsemen of California and President of the Sutter Buttes Unit. Bob is a member of the Glenn County Sheriff's Posse & Mounted Unit, and a Member of the Board of Directors of the California Trails & Greenways Foundation. bobgage@wildblue.net

Greg Gauthier has managed coastal projects in Southern California for more than 10 years for the Southern California Wetlands Recovery Project and the State Coastal Conservancy, following a career in science education programs and exhibits development. He completed his undergraduate studies at the University of Wisconsin, and earned an MS in Interdisciplinary Science Studies from the Johns Hopkins University, with a concentration in marine and wetland ecology. ggauthier@scc.ca.gov

Ruth Gerson has been a board member of the Santa Monica Mountains Trails Council (SMMTC) since 1979, and President for the last 15 years. A Santa Monica Mountains equestrian for 40 years, she is involved in various organizations promoting public access to public lands for horseback riding, keeping federal backcountry lands open for historic saddle and pack stock, and helping develop trail camps and equestrian campgrounds. She is President of SMMTC and works to maintain a presence within the community, to educate people about the irreplaceable resources in trails, and to collaborate with the land agencies responsible for the Santa Monica Mountains National Recreation Area. ruthgerson@aol.com

Susan Gilchrist is a Riverside County Parks & Open Space volunteer, and past member of the Moreno Valley Trails Committee. She is past Chair and current member of the Riverside County Trails Committee. Susan is a retired science and math teacher with over 30 years of classroom experience. sgcricket@aol.com

Jeannie Gillen is a member of the California Recreational Trails Committee and a Board member of the California Trails & Greenways Foundation, along with over 20 years of trail work in and on numerous local and national boards and commissions. She has been involved with the Juan Bautista de Anza Trail since 1990 when it was formally recognized as a National Historic Trail, and is a founding member of The Anza Trail Foundation. An avid equestrian, Jeannie has worked for the good of the greater majority of all trail users. She has a BA in legal studies and is a trained Professional Mediator in Kern County Superior Court. jeanniegillen@sti.net

Una Glass has been the Executive Director of Coastwalk California for 4 years. Under her leadership Coastwalk has continued its legacy of advocating for the California Coastal Trail (CCT), supporting public access to our coastal areas and preserving our coastal resources. Additionally, she initiated a database tracking system for CCT signage statewide, as well as a CCT-based podcast series. Prior to joining Coastwalk, Una owned a software development company, served as staff to an elected official, consulted to nonprofits and worked for a public policy consulting firm. unaglass@coastwalk.org

Richard E. Gould has over 30 years of park and recreation experience, and has been the City of Santa Clarita's Director of Parks, Recreation & Community Services since 2001. Rick currently focuses on park development, facility construction and open space issues; as well as strategic planning to manage the department's projected growth including cultural arts, special events and land acquisition. Prior to Santa Clarita, Rick was the Community Services Manager for the City of Pleasanton, was a Parks and Community Services Commissioner for the City of San Ramon, and worked for the City of Santa Cruz where he was responsible for the Ocean Beaches and Aquatics programs. He sits on the boards of a number of government and nonprofit organizations including the Santa Monica Mountains Conservancy Advisory Committee, the United States Lifesaving Association and the Boys and Girls Club of the Santa Clarita Valley. rgould@santa-clarita.org

Andrea Gullo is the Executive Director for the Puente Hills Habitat Preservation Authority and has over 17 years of professional experience in natural land management. She is experienced in coordinating and supervising projects involving trail management, construction, ranger services, outdoor education, biological studies, acquisitions, habitat restoration and administration. She currently serves on the Board and as Festival Director and Co-Producer of two nonprofit organizations providing local and national services. She holds a masters degree in Urban Planning from UCLA and has publications regarding human attitudes toward cougars. agullo@habitatauthority.org

Elayne Haggan is a founding member of the Conejo Open Space Trails Advisory Committee. She is a hiker, and for the past 21 years, has organized the annual Trails Education Days program in which volunteers guide 1,400 local 5th graders on educational hikes over the course of one week. Following each hike, mountain bikers, hikers with dogs, and equestrians perform a short skit together to teach the children about trail etiquette. elayne1025@roadrunner.com

Susan Jackson Harden, AICP, LEED AP. As Director of Planning & Design at RBF Consulting, Susan directs a team of planners focused on involving the community in revitalization and enhancement projects. Prior to her position with RBF, Susan volunteered with the Peace Corps in Senegal, West Africa and with the AmeriCorps National Service Program in Kansas City. Additionally, she led neighborhood-based planning at a Kansas City-based nonprofit environmental organization involved in local sustainable development, transportation and environmental justice. Susan is the co-author of an APA Planners Advisory Service Report entitled Placemaking On A Budget, and currently serves as a lecturer in the Planning, Policy & Design Program at UC Irvine. sharden@rbf.com

Jim Hasenauer, Professor Emeritus of Communication Studies at California State University at Northridge was a co-founder of the Concerned Off Road Bicyclists Association and the International Mountain Bicycling Association. He is President of the California Trails and Greenways Foundation; Co-Chair of the California Roundtable on Recreation, Parks and Tourism, and a member of the Governing Boards of the Mountains Recreation and Conservation Authority and the Santa Clarita Watershed Recreation and Conservation Authority. With two co-authors, Hasenauer is writing a mountain bike guidebook to Los Angeles trails. imbajim@aol.com

John Eric Holloway oversees KTU+A's mobility planning projects, including pedestrian, bikeway and trails planning services. His 20 year professional career includes substantial technical and hands-on expertise in trail planning and design. His continued involvement in defining the critical components of successful trail systems, as well as site-specific design, have been motivated by the decades-long progressive reduction in outdoor activity and the resulting childhood obesity epidemic. He sees recreational trails as an important antidote to attract kids and their parents back to the outdoors with facilities that appeal to their innate sense of fun and adventure. john@ktua.com

Stephanie Hopp is a fourth year student at Union College studying Biology, Environmental Science and Spanish. She is actively involved in biking, health and environmental protection. Stephanie plans to pursue a Masters in Public Health following her undergraduate education. hopps@garnet.union.edu

Debbie Jackson has a 20 year background in nonprofit administration, and has been consulting with nonprofit organizations since 1997. Her recent work has been in the areas of community-building, strategic planning, sustainability and collaboration. Trained by the Ford Leadership Institute, she specializes in assisting organizations and businesses with transition issues. dbjackson@brokawjackson.com

Patrick Johnston is an Outdoor Recreation Planner for the National Park Service's Rivers, Trails & Conservation Assistance Program, supporting community-driven conservation and outdoor recreation projects across southern California. Patrick joined the National Park Service in 2008 as a Landscape Architect graduate intern for the National Historic Trails office in Santa Fe, NM. Patrick has a Master's degree in Landscape Architecture from Cal Poly Pomona and a Bachelor's degree in English from UC Berkeley. patrick.johnston@nps.gov

Karly Katona is the Deputy for Sustainability for Los Angeles County Supervisor Mark Ridley-Thomas. In that capacity, she provides policy and programmatic recommendations on environmental issues, and is the primary liaison to the Departments of Regional Planning, Public Works, Parks & Recreation, Beaches & Harbors, and Public Libraries. Karly received a Bachelors of Arts in American Studies with a minor in Public Health, from the University of California at Berkeley, and recently completed her Masters in Public Health at the University of California at Los Angeles. katona@bos.lacounty.gov

Melanie Keeley is a Restoration Horticulturist for the National Park Service, serving Sequoia and Kings Canyon National Parks. Melanie has worked for the past 20 years as a native plant specialist, consultant, project coordinator, educator, landscape designer, author and botanical illustrator. She has consulted with Glendale for the past two years on restoration efforts. mbaerkeeley@gmail.com

Mark Langton is a founding member and the current Chair of the Conejo Open Space Trails Advisory Committee. His is an avid mountain biker, mountain biking instructor and a freelance journalist. He is also Chairman pro tem and a founding member of the Concerned Off-Road Bicyclists Association (CORBA). markmtb@roadrunner.com

Patricia Lock-Dawson is principal and owner of PLD Consulting, a governmental affairs firm specializing in land use and the environment. She secures funding for land acquisitions, habitat conservation, trail development and program operations; and is an environmental scientist with over 15 years of experience in government at all levels. Patricia has worked with the BLM, U.S. Geological Survey, the NPS, and both the county and city of Riverside. She serves on several boards and commissions, including the City of Riverside Planning Commission and the Riverside Land Conservancy. pld@pldconsulting.net

Kristin Maravilla is a Planner/Designer with Alta Planning + Design, whose mission is to create active communities where bicycling and walking are safe, healthy and fun. Kristin works with local governments and agencies to plan and design bicycle and pedestrian facilities, through preparation of tools such as bikeway and trail assessments, design guidelines, and bicycle and pedestrian master plans. She has degrees in landscape architecture, city and regional planning, and environmental planning. kristinmaravilla@altaplanning.com

Randy Martin has been in the building business for 28 years and has spent the last 10-years as a professional trail designer, builder and President of Trailscape, Inc. He is a trail and mountain biking enthusiast that understands the nuances of trail design and how to turn what otherwise might be a network of dirt roads into a real experience with nature. Randy volunteers with trails maintenance clubs in the Tahoe area and has been trained by the Colorado Trails Initiative (COTI) in trail design and crew leadership. randy@trailscape.net

David McNeill is the Executive Officer of the Baldwin Hills Conservancy, operating under the Natural Resources Agency for the State of California. He oversees long-term acquisition and planned development of open space into parkland for urban Southwest Los Angeles County, and has helped create community-based pocket parks, multi-benefit water quality projects, regional recreation facilities and trails in underserved communities. A founding member of the Los Angeles Neighborhood Land Trust, he has driven implementation of initiatives such as L.A.'s Walking to the Park Report and L.A. Audubon Society's baldwinhillclassroom.org. david.mcneill@bhc.ca.gov

Jim Meyer is Founder & Executive Director of Trails4All. He serves on the Los Angeles County Bicycle Advisory Committee, and is past Director of the Nature Reserve of Orange County. He was Chair of the Orange County Regional Recreational Trails Advisory Committee from 1990 to 2007. He was on the Steering Committee of "SHARE" (one of California's first organizations to promote harmonious trail sharing) from 1989 to 1994 and Executive Committee Member and Conservation Chair of the Sierra Club in Orange County in 1993 and 1994. He is Founder and Chair of the Trails Council of Orange County (Now Trails4All). Jim is a Mountain bicyclist, an equestrian, a hiker and a trail builder. jmeyert4a@aol.com

Frank Moreno has worked for the past 20 years planning and developing trails within Los Angeles County. His background of civil engineering and planning has given him a unique perspective when developing new trails and helping to maintain existing trails. His expertise in trail planning has also been shown in working with LA County Regional Planning staff, assisting in the acquisition of new lands for trails as development occurs within the County. fmoreno@parks.lacounty.gov

Ken Murray is a volunteer trail crew leader and trainer on the High Sierra Volunteer Trail Crew, for the Pacific Crest Trail Association. He has been a volunteer wilderness ranger, and is a frequent speaker in Southern California on backpacking topics. He is a doctor, whose 2011 article entitled, "How Doctors Die", was submitted for the Pulitzer Prize. He has been recreating in the Sierra for over 55 years. kmurray@pol.net

Ray Murray, Chief of Partnerships Programs, Pacific West Region, National Park Service. Ray coordinates fundraising and partnership activities and programs for National Park units in the Pacific West Region; and recreation grants and technical assistance programs for state and local agencies and partnerships; tourism and fundraising activities and programs for National Park units in the six states and territories of the Pacific West Region. He administers the Land and Water Conservation Fund; Federal Lands-to-Parks; and the Rivers, Trails and Conservation Assistance Program. Ray serves as Partnerships Programs and Tourism Lead for the Pacific West Region. He provided leadership in recent years on special initiatives including: Connecting People to the Outdoors; Children in Nature; Healthy Parks; Economic Impacts of Parks, Rivers, Trails and Greenways; visitor use management; conflict resolution; brokering partnerships; tourism; futures; learning centers; California Desert Parks; fundraising and planned giving; park friends groups; the California Roundtable on Parks, Recreation and Tourism; the California Cultural and Heritage Tourism Council; the California Watchable Wildlife Committee; the California Park and Recreation Leadership Institute; Pacific Coast Immigration Museum; Angel Island Immigration Station; Rosie the Riveter/World War II Home Front; Fort Hunter Liggett Special Resource Studies. Board experiences include: the Freight and Salvage Coffee House, the New Games Foundation, and the American Adventure Play Association. ray_murray@nps.gov

Nani Ohlendorf is a Riverside County Parks & Open-Space District Park Maintenance worker and Adopt-A-Trails Field Coordinator. She is currently assigned to the Hidden Valley Wildlife Area along the Santa Ana River in Riverside County. In that capacity she is responsible for designing, stocking and maintaining the Adopt-A-Trail trailer, and coordinating with volunteer groups during work parties. naniohlendorf@rivcoparks.org

Larry Orman is the Executive Director of GreenInfo Network, a nonprofit technology consulting organization whose mission is to assist public interest organizations in the use of computer mapping and related information technology. Before founding GreenInfo Network in 1996, Larry was for 19 years the Executive Director of the Greenbelt Alliance, the Bay Area's leading land conservation and urban planning nonprofit organization. larry@greeninfo.org

Ana Petrlc is a Project Manager in the Urban Projects & Watershed Planning Division for the Mountains Recreation and Conservation Authority (MRCA). The Conservancy's mission is to acquire, preserve, protect, restore and enhance the parkland and open spaces of Southern California. In 2004, Ana received a degree from San Francisco State University in Geography, with a focus in Environmental and Urban Planning. She has been working on planning and construction, and managing public urban park projects with the MRCA since early 2008. Ana.petrlic@mrca.ca.gov

Beth Pfeiler is a U.S. Forest Service certified crosscut and chainsaw sawyer and member of several Backcountry Horsemen groups. In the last year she volunteered nearly every week of the year serving in 5 national forests. bglidergirl@aol.com

Dave Raetz, Deputy Director, Irvine Ranch Conservancy (IRC), is responsible for strategic planning and project management for multiple IRC departments; oversees the administration of IRC's budget; and manages and evaluates staff, volunteers and public programs. Dave establishes and maintains community partnerships and partnership programs. Before coming to IRC, Dave held a number of positions with Inside the Outdoors, Orange County Schools' award-winning environmental education program, most recently as manager of school and field programs. He has also served as a field naturalist and educator. draetz@irconservancy.org

Dana Rochat is the Acquisitions and Projects Manager for the Wildlands Conservancy, and has helped establish Blue Ribbon Committees in cities along the Santa Ana River to identify open space and natural habitat opportunities, visitor facilities and educational opportunities along the parkway. She is a member of the Technical Advisory Committee for the Santa Ana River Trail and Parkway Project. dana.r@twc-ca.gov

Steven Ross is an Outdoor Recreation Planner for the Juan Bautista de Anza National Historic Trail (Anza Trail), where he focuses on collaborating with local jurisdictions to build and interpret the Anza Trail. Steve is also the co-founder/co-lead of the National Trails System GIS Network, which hosts monthly discussions regarding the use of GIS for the National Trails System. Prior to joining the National Park Service in 2009, Steve worked for over 20 years as a city planner and environmental consultant throughout California. Steve has worked as a planner for the cities of Berkeley, Long Beach, Santa Monica, Rancho Cucamonga and Encinitas. steven_ross@nps.gov

Emilyn Sheffield, Ph.D. is a Professor of Recreation and Parks Management at California State University, Chico. For more than 20 years she has worked with partners to connect people to the parks and protected places that enhance our lives. Her "trends work" helps local, state and federal agencies and conservation organizations respond more effectively to changing demographic and lifestyle trends. She frequently keynotes gatherings of natural resource agencies, conservation and stewardship organizations, and tourism associations. She is currently exploring community engagement strategies in volunteerism and conservation stewardship at the Golden Gate National Parks in San Francisco. Dr. Sheffield's interdisciplinary team completes destination projects involving scenic byways, trails, heritage tourism infrastructure, and visitor services throughout California and the western U.S. esheffield@csuchico.edu

Bianca Shulaker is a recent graduate of UCLA with a bachelors in Environmental Science. She is currently a graduate student at the USC Price School of Public Policy. biancashulaker@ucla.edu

Rorie Skei has been involved in Southern California open space preservation, trails and parkland issues for 35-years. As Chief Deputy Director for the Santa Monica Mountains Conservancy, she oversees acquisition, park development and watershed planning; partnerships with local, state and federal governments; and resource protection for tens of thousands of acres of parkland. She also serves ex officio as the Chief Deputy Executive Officer of the Mountains Recreation & Conservation Authority, a joint powers agency of the Conservancy and Rancho Simi and Conejo Recreation & Park Districts, and provides a similar administrative role for the other joint powers agencies in which the Conservancy is a partner. As a private citizen, she is the appointed public member and chairperson of the Conejo Open Space Conservation Agency. skei@smmc.ca.gov

Marc Stirdivant is a Senior Administrative Analyst for the City of Glendale's Community Services & Park Department. He serves as the department's grants administrator and supervises Trails & Open Space programs for the City's 5,000+ acres of open space. Marc represents the City of Glendale on the Advisory Committee to the Santa Monica Mountains Conservancy and sits on the Board of Directors of 3 nonprofit land trust and land advocacy organizations. mstirdivant@ci.glendale.ca.us

Linda Stonier has more than 25 years experience with the National Park Service (NPS), currently providing organizational development, capacity building and planning assistance to jurisdictions and nonprofits through the NPS Recreational Trails & Conservation Technical Assistance program. She provides an opportunity to hear from a planner who has spent years helping smaller organizations expand capacity and develop collaborative partnerships. linda.stonier@nps.gov

Marcos Trinidad is Volunteer Coordinator and Project Manager for TreePeople, which is a nonprofit organization that unites the power of trees, people and technology to grow a sustainable future for Los Angeles since 1974. They utilize a tiered training program to engage community members in self-sustaining tree care for their neighborhoods and the Santa Monica Mountains. This technique can be adopted by other nonprofits to train their volunteers about different levels of leadership for revegetation projects along their trails and greenways. marcos@pvsb-audubon.org

Jennifer Tripp is the Trail Operations Manager for the Pacific Crest Trail Association (PCTA). She has been working with long-distance National Scenic Trail nonprofits for over 10 years. Since 2007, she has overseen the growth of the PCTA's volunteer program, including development of safety and training programs. As the PCTA Operations Manager, she works on all aspects of the Trail Operations Program for trail maintenance and reconstruction, as well as trail and land management. jtripp@pcta.org

Andrew Tsiu received a Master of Public Health from the UCLA School of Public Health with an emphasis in Environmental Health Sciences and a bachelors in Biology from UCLA. During his time at the School of Public Health, he was the Teaching Assistant to Dr. Richard Jackson's Built Environment and Health course. atsiu@ucla.edu

David Updike has spent the last 17 years with the Mountains Recreation & Conservation Authority (MRCA), and is currently the Fire Management Officer, head of the Fire Division, overseeing the agency-wide trails program. Dave is President of the Park Rangers Association of California; and a certified Instructor with the California State Fire Marshal, National Wildfire Coordinating Group, American Heart Association, and the California Career Technical Education Teaching Credential. He has developed and implemented 3 semester courses through the Los Angeles County Office of Education, establishing a connection between 20 high schools and the MRCA's parklands. david.updike@mrca.ca.gov

Paul Veisze is the Geographic Information Officer for California State Parks. Following academic training in forest ecology and wildland fire, Paul has more than 25 years experience in aerial photography and mapping, GPS/GIS; and natural resources science in the private sector, and with federal and state agencies in California and Nevada. Current focus is on road and trail information systems development for public safety and facilities management applications. pveisze@parks.ca.gov

Jeff Weinstein is a Trails & Open Space Specialist for the City of Glendale Community Services & Parks Department. He has 22 years of experience in trail and park planning, and has served as the Trails Coordinator for Riverside County, San Bernardino County and the City of Riverside. He has been with the City of Glendale for the past 5 years, working on trails, open space projects and the restoration of the Deukmejian Wilderness Park. jweinstein@ci.glendale.ca.us

Ken Wells is Executive Director of the Sonoma County Trails Council (SCTC). He has been working on trails since the mid-80's, with training from California State Parks and the

International Mountain Bicycling Association. He has been with the SCTC since 1992, and was a member of the "A Team", that developed the current trail system at Annadel State Park. Ken was also the Executive Director of the Sonoma County Waste Management Agency from 1992 to 2008, which perfected his ability to move through the bureaucratic maze of local and state government. kenwells@sonic.net

John Wentworth became involved in a public-access dispute with construction of a private gate on a public road that held significant implications for recreation egress from public federal lands. After a very public and successful campaign, and resolution of the issues, John founded the Mammoth Lakes Trails & Public Access Foundation (MLTPA) in 2007, and currently serves as the Chief Executive Officer and Board Chair. In March 2009 John was recognized by the Sierra Business Council with its "Vision 2020" award for his work with MLTPA on behalf of trails and public access in Mammoth Lakes, and continues to lead the organization and its enthusiastic team through challenges, opportunities and success. johnwentworth@mltpa.org

Liz Westbrook is Assistant Project Manager for Campbell Grading, Inc. She has been working in landscape and ecological design for over 6 years. Liz focuses on the impacts a project has on storm water, and design aesthetics, as well as on the short-term and long-term quality of the project. tsuga.agua@gmail.com

Sean Woods is Superintendent of California State Parks (CSP), Los Angeles Sector. He has worked with CSP for the past 10 years with the primary responsibility of implementing CSP's Urban Strategic Initiative in Los Angeles. Through this initiative, State Parks has worked cooperatively with local partners to address the needs of under-served urban residents by committing resources to community outreach and development of urban parks; investing over $150 million dollars for acquisition, planning and development in the local community. Central to urban planning efforts has been a focus on Los Angeles River Parks as vital links in the greening of the LA River and implementation of the Los Angeles River Revitalization Master Plan. Prior to State Parks, Sean worked with the California Coastal Commission and authored one of the first studies to focus on LA River revitalization efforts. sawoods@parks.ca.gov

Walt Young is the Chief Operations Officer and Park Ranger with the Mountains Recreation & Conservation Authority (MRCA). As a California Peace Officer, he has taught Arrest, Search and Seizure at the community college level. He operates over 60,000 acres of parkland in Los Angeles and Ventura Counties, and is responsible for the development of river safety, interpretation and recreation programs for MRCA river projects on the Los Angeles, Rio Honda and San Gabriel Rivers, as well as Ballona Creek and Big Tujunga. walt.young@MRCA.ca.gov